PRAYER

Today we honour St Alphonsus Liguori, a bishop of the church.

*He was born in the Kingdom of Naples, Italy, in 1696 and died in 1787.
Alphonsus was the founder of the religious order known today as the Redemptorists.*

*In his time they developed 'Evening Chapels' for young people, which offered prayer,
scripture study, social service and education.*

He devoted his life to serving the poor, and social outcasts.

Lord, we honour your saints and ask them to inspire us to lead generous lives.

AMEN

FROM THE PRINCIPAL

Dear Parents, Guardians, Families, Students and Members of our College Community,

This week at assemblies we unveiled the major individual prize for our House Point system. Thanks to the College P&F and with excellent support from the Great Southern Bicycle Company, we have a mountain bike for the major prizewinner from the Junior, Middle and Senior Schools.

*Jessica Hankinson & Isaac Baldwin (Year 10)

PRINCIPAL'S REPORT

You will recall that we have greatly expanded our House Point System and students can earn House Points for academic, cultural and behavioural, liturgical events and sports. The House Points reward consistency in things like correct uniform or other everyday positive things, and also the extra-ordinary effort that students make from time to time.

The House Co-ordinators and Mr Watson have put a lot of time into the House Points system this year. We have been very well supported by the P&F, who have assisted us in providing prizes such as CD vouchers for the end of Term, the P&F Ice-cream draw and of course the bikes.

The House Point system is one way in which we can recognise those students contributing to the College Community, which ultimately makes us all better off.

Next week we welcome our Japanese Exchange Students to the College. This is a wonderful opportunity for some Cultural exchange and I am sure our students will respond positively to the programme.

Mr Bradley Hall - Principal

MEET THE STAFF

Sarah Manolas

I am the Year Two teacher and I started my teaching career here at St Joseph's College in 2007. I am currently enrolled in further studies in the area of students with special needs. I am passionate about my job and I love working with children. I am also involved with the church community. I feel at home here in Albany!!

REFLECTION

It seems to me that we allow too many of our students to be simply career-oriented, and we leave unchallenged their desire simply to find a comfortable niche in society. I fear that in the course of their studies many of our students gain only a minimal sense of social responsibility and little appreciation of the social teachings of the Catholic Church. Beyond this, I wonder how many students are required to take an ethics course which focuses on the moral issues associated with the careers they are planning.

I venture to say that, in terms of our curriculum, we leave too much to our students' 'good will' and so fail to require that they give serious, systematic and sustained reflection to the complex ethical questions that they will face in their careers. I believe that students, at the very least, should first be helped to recognise, and then made to take a hard look at, the ethical concerns that are most closely connected to their chosen field of endeavour. Any hope that students will be motivated to do what is right must be based on our first helping them gain a clearer understanding of what 'the right thing to do' is.

On paper, Catholic educational institutions are committed to encourage their students to the kind of faith in God that will inspire them to bring justice and love into their work and world.

More specifically, it might be said that the Catholic educational mission is to help students see that faith in God gives rise to a three-dimensional responsibility which we educators must help them meet. In short, our students must seek and be encouraged to grow in three ways.

Competence: Every student should graduate as a well-rounded individual with a solid knowledge of a particular field of study. There is simply no substitute for an informed head.

Conscience: In addition, all graduates should have a better sense of how to use, in a right and helpful way, the knowledge they have gained. Correct information should be guided by a warm heart.

Compassion: Finally, understanding what is right, every graduate must find the courage to follow through in action and do what is right. Intelligence and talk of values should finally be seen and felt in loving hands.

It has been said that we make a living by what we get, but we make a life by what we give. Clearly, our students have a right to learn how to make a living, but they also have a duty to learn how to live. Catholic schools must recognise and support this right of students, but they must also see to it that the students recognise and fulfil this duty. What other reasons do Catholic schools have for existing?

This week's reflection appeared in a recent copy of the weekly magazine America and was written by Vincent Genovesi SJ.

Civic Reception for Dr Fiona Wood

Last term on Thursday 26 June, I was privileged enough to represent the College Community at a Civic Reception held for Dr Fiona Wood in recognition of her award as Australian of the Year 2005. A busy work schedule together with the travelling and visiting commitments that go with that prestigious award had prevented Dr Wood from visiting Albany during 2005.

At a lovely reception held at the Civic Centre in Albany, I had the chance to meet and listen to Dr Wood as she shared many insightful stories relating to her busy life and the wonderful work which she does at the Burns Unit in Perth. Her love of working and living in Western Australia was evident through the anecdotes she shared with the people present. Dr Wood's humility, energy and down to earth nature, for a woman who has achieved so much, is inspiring and after hearing her speak it is evident how deserving she was of the title of Australian of the Year 2005. I really enjoyed this experience and it is one that I will remember forever.

Verity Gorman - Year 11

COMMUNITY NOTICES

Bring Home a Brother or a Sister

In February 2009, students aged 15-18 years, from over 15 countries will be arriving in Australia to study at local schools for 5 or 10 months. Opportunities exist to act as a host family in a volunteer/unpaid capacity. Hosting can be on a temporary, short or long term basis.

Host families help provide our students with the chance to study and experience life in Australia. This is a great way to learn about another country and culture, establish a lifelong link to a family in another country and contribute to international goodwill. If your family can offer a friendly, supportive and caring home environment, contact us today.
